BIG CLOVER SEED SHIPMENT.

LOCAL GRAIN FIRM SELLS $5,000 WORTH TO NEW ZEALANDERS.

Shrubs and Flowers From Paris to Bloom in Kansas City-Fine Jersey Cattle.

It has been a long time since there was uch a variety and so much important busness handled in the customs office as was disposed of or begun yesterday. The business in the morning opened with the im-portation of four bales of Sumatra tobacco, five cases of linens and a large shipment of shrubs and flowers from Paris. The latter was an unusual shipment, as the records show very little shrubbery ever received from that portion of the globe. There are occasional shipments from other countries, but the importations of the decorative flowers and shrubs of Paris are rare. The customs department is not allowed to give the name of the importer, but the stuff was for a Kansas City man, and the shrubs was for a Kansas City man, and the shrubs will decorate property now or soon to be in the corporate limits of the city, and the flowers will exhale their sweetness on the winds that blow gently from the southward to the city during the summer.

A prominent live stock man of Kansas was at the office, and said he was to soon receive eighty head of Jersey cattle from across the water, and will clear them here instead of at New York, as has been the custom with Western importers. The cattle will arrive during the coming month, and will be put on one of the fancy Jersey farms of Eastern Kansas.

The department was also notified that one of the leading grain firms of the city had sold $5.00 worth of clover seed, to be delivered at Auckland. New Zealand, and would ship it during the next two weeks. The exportation of clover seed from this city to that land is something new. It is said there is much improvement being made in that portion of the New World, and the seed is required there, and will sell at a fancy price. The seed is worth a top figure, and the cost of transportation to that land is very heavy, but the demand is such as to allow the exporter a snug sum for his profit after all expenses are met.

GOVERNMENT EXACTS ITS DUES. Why an Effort to Relieve a German Family That Was in Distress Failed.

Lying on an upper shelf in the govern-ment warehouse out on South Grand avenue is a package of clothing that has been in charge of the customs officials for sevnn charge of the customs officials for several years. They have tried many times to dispose of it and get it to the people for whom it was intended, but have failed at every turn. They do not yet know what they shall do with it, but unless it is taken out shortly they will have to sell it for the duties due on it. They do not want to sell it, but they may be compelled to do so. There are twenty-eight suits of clothes in the package, according to the involce. The duty is about $80, but the consigness are not able to make the payment of the duty. The package reached Kansas City several years ago. It was consigned to a family of German people out in the short grass country of Kansas. It was during the severe cold weather and the whole western portion of Kansas was shivering. The hapless German family had tried to found a home out in the sandhills and met the usual fate. Word of their plight was sent to relatives and friends in the Fatherland and as clothing was the one object most needed, the big package of suits was made up there and friends in the Fatherland and as clothing was the one object most needed, the big package of suits was made up there and started for Kansas.

That it was dutiable goods they did not know. The customs officers, however, marked it dutiable, and when Ben Warner inspected the package on its arrival here he classified it and levied a duty of $80 on it. He notified the family of the arrival of the goods and the amount of the duty. The duty might as well have been $8,900, so far as the ability of the family to pay was concerned. If they had $80 they would not have needed help. They said they could not pay the amount and an investigation showed their statement to be true. Still, not pay the amount and an showed their statement to be true. Still, there was nothing to be done but hold the winter winds of Kansas howled on winter gave way to summer's warmth. Twice the seasons have come and gone and the German family have been asked to settle the duty claim, but answered they had done all they could in shipping the liberal stock. Last summer the department here tried to get the matter closed by the authorities at Washington, but falled to secure the desired order. It is possible another effort to force the closing of the business may be made, but if it fails there will be nothing left but to advertise the goods and dispose of them. The family for which the goods were intended have since abandened their cheerless home and as nearly as the customs officers here can learn are living in Argentine, Kas.

REVIVAL OF RIVER TRADE.

"Commodore" Kreeger to Inspect the First of the Big Line of Boats to Be Placed on the Missouri.

"Commodore" Kreeger, of the customs office here, who is in charge of all boats that run on the Missouri river, was yesterday notified to be at Glasgow on Moncing to measure and inspect the new boat "Minnie" that will go into commission ony to measure and inspect the new boat "Mirnle" that will go into commission there for actual traffic as soon as her license is issued. The boat is sixty feet long. Her hold is two feet deep. It will be necessary to inspect the boat through the hold and "Commodore" Kreezer will have to crawl on his hands and kness through the sixty feet and measure the through the sixty feet and measure the hold capacity of the boat and see that it is in perfect condition. There will be a in perfect condition. There will be a during the season, as nearly every city on the river will have one or two. CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION.

Thirty-one Applicants for Place in the Revenue Department-Many Examined, but Few Chosen.

There are thirty-one applicants for the civil service examination for the revenue department to be held to-day in the federal prospective vacancies in the department and absolutely no chance for the majority of those who apply, as the small opportunity for appointment is held simply by the fortunate ones who head the list.

In the departmental examination that is to be held on the 24th, there are 160 applicants and it will be hard work for the comants and if will be hard work to take the large class to work. There the opportunities are the ame. The ones who make the highest same. The ones who make the aignest grades may have some little chance, but for # per cent of the applicants there is not the ghost of a show. On the 2rd of April there will be an examination for cus-toms department. These examinations are held at stated periods whether men are wanted or not.

WESTPORT SCHOOL BOARD.

New High School Addition Well Un der Way and Will Be Completed for the Fall Term of School.

The Westport board of education met yes terday afternoon at the office of Judge A. M. Allen and transacted a large amount of routine business. The new addition to the high school costing $10,000, was reported to be well under way, the excavating having aiready been completed. The structure will be ready for the fall opening and will accommodate 100 pupils.

A committee of residents of Westport will be ready for the fall opening and will necommodate less papils.

A committee of residents of Westport went before the board in the interest of the proposition to annex the Westport school district to the Kansas City school district. The board's legal advisers gave an opinion to the effect that when Westport municipality was incorreporated into Kansas City the school districts would be thereby consolidated and no further action will be taken in the matter.

Took on Overdose of Cocaine. Mary Lamb, a colored woman, was picked up by Officer Fisher in the alley at Seven-teenth and Main streets last night, suffer-ing from an overdose of cocaine. She was removed to Central police station, where she lay on a cot and called piteously for her child, which died a few days ago. She was revived by the surgeon.

ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON.

GREENWOOD CLUB'S EVENING WITH THE LATE LAUREATE.

and Scholarly Paper on the Life, Character, Philosophy and Religion of the Poet.

Rev. Thomas Cooper Reads an Able

The Greenwood Club, at its regular meeting last night, listened to an able and scholarly lecture by Rev. Thomas Cooper, late of Devonshire, England, on "Alfred Tennyson as Poet and Teacher." At the close of the lecture, the club departed from its usual custom and tendered a vote of thanks to Dr. Cooper.

Dr. Cooper showed himself to be a careful as well as loving student of Tenny son, and his address was the evidence of profound study. The whole range of En glish literature was covered during the progress of the lecturer's analysis of Tennyson's life, philosophy, religion and char-

"Tennyson," he said, "hat the manliest us well as the tenderest and cheeriest view of life. He was a good hater of every form of lying and was true to his great master, Wordsworth. No greater tender-ness ever rose to music in a human soul. He honored human toll and his heart beat with ness ever rose to music in a human soul. He honored human toil and his heart beat with sympathy for the unfortunate. Labor was in his mind the great backbone of life. The man who works adds to the sum of things. "As to Tennyson's philosophy; He was always interested in geology. He worshiped at the shrine of Columbus and he was eminently a thinker. He believed in evolution and yet he believed in design. "Much error has crept into the discussion of Tennyson's religion and religious teachings. There was no Voltairianism about him. Voltaire was one of the world's great genuses, but the smoke of his irony darkened his age. No section of Christendom can claim Tennyson, but every Christian man rejoices in the poet's love for the Christ. "Tennyson has built for we a fairy pales."
